DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-2, 6, 11, and 19, 22 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Examiner could find no support for the newly claimed limitation that the axis of the wheel rotation is perpendicular to the axis about which the shaft rotates – either explicit or implicit. This is deemed to be a prima facie showing on failure to comply with the requirement. The burden is now on Applicant to show the requirement is complied with, or to amend the claims so that they comply.

Further there is no support for the rotation of the shaft.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 24 November 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

It is argued that the new claim limitations (which are presently the basis of the sole rejection) are disclosed at page 8, line 30 to page 9 line 3. Examiner could not see anything in that passage which indicates the two axes are perpendicular.

It is also argued that figures 1 and 2 show a horizontal axis which is perpendicular to the axis of castor 1. Examiner disagrees because there doesn't seem to be any axis shown. Furthermore, there is no indication that the drawings are drawn to scale or are working drawings; even if an angle in a drawing was at a right angle, it would not necessarily mean the drawing discloses that the structure had a right angle. Most importantly, (assuming the drawings were drawn to scale) Examiner visualizes the structure, the axis (around which the shaft 4 pivot) would extend out of the page, substantially at the location that "5" points to. The other axis is above that axis. The two axis do not meet; they are skew. For two lines to be perpendicular, they have to form an angle of 90 degrees. The two lines ^{would} have to intersect to form an angle.

As to the shaft rotating: the disclosure Applicant points to only indicates that the shaft "pivots". The castor rotates, and it can also pivot – but around a different axis. Since the specification uses these two similar terms, one of ordinary skill would see that these two terms are not exactly the same. It is well understood that patents generally require consistent claim terminology; different words should not be used to describe the same thing. For example: Rotating would reasonably suggest movement of 360 degrees, and pivoting would mean less than complete 360 degree movement. To summarize: 1) applicant has only shown support for pivoting, but not rotating, 2) there is no basis for using the terms interchangeably – when previously they were used differently.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
